Orland Village Election Next Tues. Is A Red Hot Issue

Next Tuesday there will be a hot time in Orland when the annual village election takes place. There are practically four factions in the field which assures plenty of rivalry for the offices to be filled.

All sides are asking the voters for their support, so it will be a case of the best man winning.

The candidates of the Republican party have issued the following announcement to the voters of the village:

TO THE VOTERS OF ORLAND PARK

Village Election will be held on Tuesday April 21st, 1925. The Polling Place (Village Hall) opens at 7 A. M. and closes at 5 P. M.

The following Candidates as their names appear on the Republican ticket of the Ballot, respectfully solicit your loyal support and the cooperation of ALL who believe in an honest, economical and Mutual Administration of the Affairs of the Village.

If elected, they will faithfully serve the Public to the best of their ability. Your interests will be their first consideration. Assuring a Square Deal for all honorable motives.

There has been rumor afloat that a dark horse would enter the race for the office of mayor and this rumor has been borne out by the following "announcement" issued by the Independent Party Committee endorsing the re-election of Louis Raschke the out-going mayor:

"Red Hot Election Predicted For Orland Park."

"Three candidates are in the field for election as President of the Village of Orland Park.

The present incumbent, Mr. Louis C. Raschke, has been persuaded by his many friends to run again, and as the two parties have already their candidates placed on their respective tickets, it will be necessary for Mr. Raschke to run as an Independent candidate. This necessitates his name being written in on the ballot by each voter and an "X" put before his name.

It seems very evident that the odds are in favor of Mr. Raschke for re-election. He will run on a platform of merit. Since he has been elected to office, he has made many improvements for Orland, and has other necessary movements under way, which, if he fails to be re-elected would be a set back for Orland.

Mr. Raschke demonstrated that he is of the progressive type, capable, conservative and justifies re-election.

It was only upon urgent demand of the interested inhabitants of Orland that he decided to run as an Independent candidate."

Holstein Saloon At Orland Raided

Last Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock deputies from the Cook County Sheriff's office raided the saloon of Chas. P. Hollstein. It is said moonshine was found. Mr. Hollstein was asked to appear in court in Chicago, but it is said that the case will most likely be dropped.

Orland Faces Big Real Estate Boom

Orland is facing the biggest growth of its history. With all the new subdivisions opening up and the building activities that are going on, this town will soon put itself on the map.

The Nichol Realty Co., of Chicago which recently purchased the Sedgwick property adjoining the Orland school is making preparations to lay out the land in streets and lots. Permission was asked of the village board at their meeting Monday night to do blasting on this property as a lot of tree stumps will have to be blown out to make way for streets and building sites. Quite a number of new families

Civic Improvement To Be Big Issue In Worth Election

With a president, a treasurer and 3 trustees to be elected and three parties in the field, the election next Tuesday, April 21st promises a contest that will rival the fiercest of national presidential elections ever fought, but we may view our own little affair from our own doorstep; the issue rests entirely with our little old judgment.

Frank Rolfe will run independently against Harry P. Woods, Citizens candidate and present president.

Beyond vague impressions gathered here and there the policies of either is not very well known. However, it is thought the old "Strict Economy" plank will be used by our present officers, same having been so effective in previous contests.

The Independent candidate for president also clings to this idea, but believes that economy measures should not interfere with common sense expenditures for actions that further progress of the community and make it something beside a railroad tank town.

Both Mr. Woods and Mr. Rolfe are popular and well liked and the outcome of the election is hard to predict.

Turning to the trustees we have Lewis MacCauly, E. A. Preller and Chas. Priebe of the Independent-Citizens party against Louis Daniel L. Schipper and H. S. Ferrin of the Citizens party.

Of the Independent-Citizens party we may point with pride to the records hung up within the past year such as the prompt and decisive passage of the sidewalk ordinance, the addition of a highway police much needed for protection and is also an aid to village funds; the purchase of a modern fire fighting apparatus which was very sorely needed and now also removes that unwholesome dread of fire that hangs over communities unprotected and lastly forcing the cemetery to put in the drainage which they did not see fit to do until taken to law about it. Having proved that progress in deeds and words is their motto, we believe these men will be open to suggestions and improvements that boost our stock in the market of better communities.

Every property owner in Worth is interested in seeing our village become something beside a surveyors stake even if we go in debt temporarily in order to pass measures that guarantee growth of our town both in size and property values.

In order to insure growth and property values we must exclude undesirable enterprises such as cemeteries and for that reason be sure where your candidate stands on this question as it is of vital importance to every property owner in the village.

Wet and Dry Issue In Frankfort Fight

The village election at Frankfort next Tuesday is going to be the hottest contest Frankfort has had in this line for years. The big fight centers on the office of mayor.

The opposing candidates are the present mayor, Max F. Haass and George D. Letts. The wet and dry question is the main issue, the followers of Letts standing for the enforcement of the 18th amendment as regards local saloons.

R. J. HENSEL NEW DIRECTOR

Richard Hensel, Mokena druggist was elected a member of the Mokena school board last Saturday defeating Aug. Hentsch by over 30 votes.

have moved to Orland from Chicago lately and indications are that Orland will be the coming suburb. Concrete roads and good train service are the big factors in the up-building of the community.

Hundreds Attend Last Rites For Mrs. Albert Cappel

"Wait on God and trust him thru all thy days,
Cast thy cares upon him who guides all thy ways;
Take up thy cross; count it not a loss
For the heat of sorrow melts away the dross.
Jesus, Dear Savior, patient and mild,
Let me obedient be, a trusting child."

This was the thought and prayer which came into the hearts and minds of the sorrowing husband, children, relatives and friends as they were gathered about the death bed of Mrs. Albert Cappel in the St. Joseph hospital, Joliet in the early hours of April 9th as her soul took its flight to her Master.

It was indeed hard for the near ones as well as the friends of Mrs. Cappel to realize that the young wife and mother who only a brief while ago was the very picture of health should so suddenly fall a victim to the wasting disease that claimed her.

On April 2nd she underwent an operation which at first appeared successful, but unexpected complications developed which ended in death.

Mrs. Clara Cappel nee Yunker was born in Orland township May 12, 1892, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Yunker.

On April 8, 1906 she was confirmed in the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena by the late Rev. C. Schaub.

On January 28, 1914 she was united in marriage with Albert C. Cappel of Mokena. To this union three sons were born.

The young wife, mother and daughter left to mourn her early passing on her deeply bereaved husband and three sons, Wesley, Harold and Marvin, her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Yunker, six brothers, four sisters and a host of other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Cappel was an earnest Christian and a faithful member Mokena and a most valued member of the Ladies Aid Society of this church. She will be missed in many ways, but while missing her, her loved ones shall be reminded that her life was rich toward God and her fellow beings.

The funeral services were held last Saturday afternoon from the late home to the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena. This beautiful edifice was too small to seat all the great throng of mourners who came to pay final tribute to her memory. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. Rev. Wm. Kreis officiated. Burial took place in the St. John cemetery.

The officials wish to announce that the correct price paid for the new fire engine is $4,650 and the Worth Booster club is paying $800 of this amount leaving $3,850 as the actual cost to the village.

Christ Yunker Dies Within A Week of Daughter's Death

Christ Yunker who has been a resident of Mokena for the past 18 years, died at his home Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock after being ill only 48 hours with flu pneumonia. The suddenness of his passing came as a great shock to the community. It was only a week ago that his daughter Mrs. Clara Cappel died at the St. Joseph hospital in Joliet of the same disease. She died last Thursday morning at 2 o'clock while he passed away about 9 hours sooner than a week from his daughter's hour of death. Mr. Yunker had attended the funeral of his daughter last Saturday afternoon and by a strange kink of fate his funeral will be held just a week to the day and hour from the day of his daughter's funeral namely Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p. m.

On Monday of this week Mr. Yunker attended the funeral of John Marti and Monday midnight he was stricken with flu and pneumonia and within forty-eight hours he was summoned to the Great Beyond.

Mr. Yunker was always cheerful and made a legion of friends.

He lived in the town of Orland a great many years and served that town as highway commissioner for a number of years. About eighteen years ago he bought a home in Mokena and retired from farming and has resided here ever since.

He was a good citizen and neighbor and his sudden passing is deplored by the community of which he was a part for many years.

Mr. Yunker was born in Switzerland on Aug. 31, 1850. When 7 years old he immigrated with his parents to America. They settled in the town of Orland. In 1868 he was confirmed in the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena by the Rev. Mr. Meyer.

On June 28, 1872 he was united in marriage with Miss Minnie Panchert of Orland. To this union 11 children were born of whom one daughter Mrs. Clara Cappel died only a week ago making the first death in the family.

Mr. Yunker is survived by his deeply bereaved widow, six sons, William, Christ, John and Fred of Orland, George of Tinley Park and Henry of North Dakota, four sisters, Mrs. V. H. Scheer of Tinley Park, Mrs. Wm. Keuch, Mrs. C. Erickson of Mokena and Mrs. Emil Hinspeter of Frankfort, fifty-two grand children, six great grand children, two brothers, George of Bancroft, Neb., Fred of Mokena, 3 step brothers, Edward, Nick and Henry, four sisters, Mrs. Magdalena Wols, Oak Park, Mrs. Baumgart of Tinley Park, Mrs. Louisa Clinton, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hubenthal both of Chicago.

Last summer he celebrated his golden wedding anniversary. What tragedy and sorrow can come into a life within a few brief months!

Funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon to the St. John church at 1:30 o'clock. Burial in St. John cemetery, Rev. Wm. Kreis, officiating.

Poorman Poultry Farm Near Fire

Some careless motorist built a camp fire in the woods north of the John Poorman poultry farm northeast of Tinley Park Sunday morning and failed to put it out before leaving. The fire burned until late in the afternoon when a strong northeast wind fanned it into a raging prairie fire which swept the woods directly toward the Poorman poultry farm. Help was summoned by phone and in a short time fully 100 auto loads of fire fighters were on hand. The Blue Island Fire Department's chemical truck was also called out. After a hard fight the stubborn blaze was checked just as it was within 40 feet of Mr. Poorman's chicken houses. The fire however spread to the A. O. Foskett poultry farm adjoining Poorman farm and number of chicken houses burned. This shows that carelessness with fire is a costly affair.

John Marti, Aged 75 Years Called To The Great Beyond

John Marti, aged 75 years, who has been a resident of Mokena and vicinity for over half a century, died at his home in Mokena last Friday morning.

Until of late years, Mr. Marti was a man of robust appearance who could pride himself on his strength despite the fact that he was over seventy years old. One of his bitter disappointments came when he began to realize that his physical frame was gradually yielding to the ravages of disease.

Mr. Marti was born May 8, 1849 in Rapperschwil, Switzerland and at age of five years he came to this country with his parents.

He was confirmed and received into the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena April 15, 1866. He was intimately associated with the affairs of St. John since the days of her early history up to the present time and was a loyal member. He sacrificed time and means for the church he loved. He was a member of the church council for a number of years.

On March 11, 1873 he was united in marriage to Louisa Sass. To this union ten children were born of whom eight survive.

The past few years Mr. Marti began to fail in health and of late his condition became so aggravated that despite all loving care and medical attention, the hand of death could not be stayed.

His day is spent. We are thankful for what he was and what he did and cherish the hope that God in His infinite grace caused to dawn for him another day, which ushered in a new life, a life where sorrow and suffering and death have no part.

Mr. Marti leaves to mourn his loss his widow, four sons, Edward, of Mokena, Frank and Harry of Frankfort and Arthur of New Lenox, four daughters, Mrs. Emil Cappel, Mrs. Elmer Woodcock, Mrs. Arthur Geuther of Mokena, Mrs. Raymond Warnings of Frankfort, on brother, Benjamin Marti of Los Angeles, Cal., two sisters, Mrs. John Liess of Mokena and Mrs. Chas. Schiek of Joliet, 12 grandchildren and a large circle of other relatives and friends.

The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon from the late home to the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena, Rev. Wm. Kreis officiating. Interment in the St. John cemetery.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Purpose of Tinley Community Club

Editor News-Bulletin:

There is at present quite a sentiment in this community toward a community club or organization of some kind. This sentiment can be greatly increased to a stage where a club will be in demand and assured of a successful start as soon as the proper information is brought before the residents of this community.

To this end there has been a temporary organization formed for the sole purpose of bringing before the community the necessary information and plans for a community club so that it may be intelligently considered by all. When the time is ripe, all will be invited to join in a permanent organization and when this is done, the resulting organization will necessarily represent the community views and ideas of all and not just a few.

That is the reason why the present organization feels it best to organize temporarily and not permanently. The temporary organization is composed of the following who have subscribed to the preamble preceding their names and they have pledged themselves to a total sum of $220 for financing the start of a club:

A. O. Foskett, H. W. Wyman, E. J. Molin, H. A. Mager, Selby H. Hirsch, Francis A. Harper, Paul H. Rauhoff, Herman Jacobs, Dr. C. Scheer, H. C. Vogt, Jr., H. Y. Klepper, J. C. Funk, Louis Giesel.

This group is more in the nature of a committee than an organization (continued on back page)

MRS. WILHELMY SAVED BY FRIEND

Doctor Advised Operation
Friend Said Try Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound First

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I was all run down from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner every day. The doctor said I had to go to the hospital but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights. Any woman can write to me and I will answer her letter."—Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 309 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance
Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

RAT-BITE FEVER

RAT bites are not common in this country. Although the rat population is said to be at least as large, if not larger than the human, the two apparently come together seldom. In the country, where numerous rats are found under barns, corn cribs and wood sheds, and where children go barefoot at least part of the year, rat bites are probably much more frequent than is usually supposed.

In Japan, where the houses are of loose construction, where every one sleeps on mats on the floor and where many of the people go barefooted all the year round, rat bites are much more common than in this country. The doctors in Japan have found that there is a definite disease which may be gotten from a rat bite, just as hydrophobia can be gotten from a dog bite. They call it sodoku.

Any kind of a bite, so far as the wound is concerned is like any other kind of a stabbing or tearing wound. Its seriousness depends largely on the kind of a weapon that makes it. A stab wound with a new, clean, bright knife is not as dangerous as the same wound made with an old, jagged, dirty knife. But animals' teeth are seldom clean. Our old English saying is "as clean as a hound's tooth." But hounds or any other kinds of dogs very seldom have clean teeth. They may have hydrophobia, if they have been bitten by a mad dog. Even if they do not have this worst of dog diseases, they have in their mouths and on their teeth germs of various kinds, which stay in the wound and produce infection, causing pain, swelling and sometimes fever.

Rats also generally have some kind of germ in their mouths, so that the rat bites usually become infected and may cause fever. In about ten to twenty days after the bite, the patient, often a child, will complain of headache, weakness and muscular pains. The bite, even if it has apparently healed, becomes swollen, painful and a reddish blue color. The glands or "kernels" nearest the bite become swollen and tender. If the bite is on the foot, the glands in the groin are swollen; if on the hands, the glands in the arm pit. Fever, nausea, vomiting follow and, in severe cases, the child may become delirious. The fever lasts several days, then disappears for from two to six days and reappears. A bluish red rash appears on the body.

The disease may last weeks or months. Most cases eventually recover. Treatment consists in cauterizing the bite with carbolic acid and in the injection of arsenamine.

LEAD POISONING

LEAD poisoning is one of the commonest diseases due to occupation. It is found among painters, plumbers and many other workmen who handle or use some form of lead in their work. A recent article on lead poisoning lists over 150 occupations in which cases have occurred.

Lead poisoning is also found among persons who have been poisoned by foods containing lead or cooked in vessels lined with an enamel containing lead or by drinking water which has stood for some time in lead pipes.

Lead poisoning does not come on suddenly, but so slowly as to cover weeks or even months. The patient is constipated, always tired, has no appetite, has cramp-like pains in his muscles, especially in the calves. His tongue is coated, he has a foul breath, is pale and loses weight. Soon a blue line appears on the gums, just above the edge. This is the certain and characteristic sign of lead poisoning.

If the patient, at this stage, finds out that he is being poisoned and removes the cause, or gives up the harmful work, takes frequent warm baths, eats good food, takes tonics and laxatives, he may recover without any further harm. But if the poisoning goes on without being treated, he is apt to have an attack of lead colic or painter's colic as it is sometimes called. This is a sudden, severe pain in the abdomen, like acute colic, accompanied by constipation and followed by diarrhea. The pain may last for several days, disappear and return in two or three weeks.

Finally, the poisoned person may have a paralysis of one or more groups of muscles. The muscles which straighten out the fingers may first be paralyzed, then the group which opens the hand, and finally the muscles which straighten the wrist, so that it is impossible to raise or close the hand, which hangs lifeless from the wrist. This is called "wrist drop." The patient is unable to use his hands. Just why lead poisoning should paralyze the muscles which the painter or plumber specially needs in his work, no one knows, but these are the muscles most generally affected.

Persons handling or using nail dyes, paints or even some forms of face powder may also have lead poisoning. Those whose work makes it necessary to handle lead or anything containing it should be especially careful to wash their hands always before eating, not to eat in the work shop, to protect their food from any contact with lead and to avoid breathing dust which may contain lead.

Class Unchanged.

Washington.—A comprehensive statement was issued by Postmaster General New on the increases in postal rates, effective April 15, which are required to take care of the advance in postal salaries, amounting to approximately $68,000,000 a year.

"So far as the rates on first-class mail are concerned," Postmaster General New said, "there are no changes whatever except in the case of private mailing cards, including souvenir post cards, on which the rate is increased from 1 to 2 cents each. Post cards issued by the government, however, will continue to be sent for 1 cent each.

"The rates on second, third and fourth-class mail have been increased in certain contingencies, but this increase is very slight and will not work any hardship on the mailing public. The excess revenue will provide increased compensation for the post office's army of faithful employees."

With the change in the rates on first-class mail matter, as outlined by the postmaster general, the other changes effective April 15 are as follows:

On second-class mail, newspapers, magazines and other periodicals containing notice of second-class entry, the rate for the public is 2 cents for each 2 ounces up to 8 ounces, and the fourth-class zone rate plus a 2-cent service charge on each parcel over 8 ounces. This does not include certain increases in rates for publishers and news agents.

On third-class mail, circulars and other miscellaneous printed matter, as well as merchandise, the rate is 1½ cents for each 2 ounces up to 8 ounces. The rate on books, including catalogues of 24 pages or more, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions and plants is 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction.

On fourth-class (parcel-post) mail, the same matter, weighing more than 8 ounces, as handled in third-class mail. The limit of weight is 70 pounds in the first, second and third zones, and 50 pounds in all other zones. The present pound rates in the various zones have not been changed.

A service charge of 2 cents in stamps, to be affixed to packages in addition to the postage, has been imposed for each parcel, except those collected on rural delivery routes.

The act of February 28, 1925, offers a new and speedier service for parcel post which mailers may or may not purchase at their option. This new service is designated "special handling" service.

Practically speaking, this means that parcel post is to be handled, not as parcel post customarily is handled, but as first-class mail. Its particular advantage applies mainly to handling en route to railroads and other transportation facilities between the post office of dispatch and the post office of destination.

It must be carefully distinguished from the "special delivery" service, where the chief advantage applies after the arrival of mail at the post office of its destination.

For this special handling of mail, a charge of 25 cents will be imposed.

Student Ill, Kills Self; Diaries Tell of Gay Life

Chicago.—The body of Robert Preston, twenty-one, Northwestern university student, was found with a bullet hole in the head and weighted with iron, in the lake off Madison street.

Fastened to it, apparently in the student's plan to place them where they never would be read, were three remarkable, self-revealing diaries—histories of his "flings," surfeits of forbidden food and drink, dusk-to-dawn revels, coed conquests and his battle against disease.

He had chosen thus to end a fight he could not win and, standing at the lake's edge, just before the Easter sunrise, and just at the close of "a last fling," he had fired a bullet into his brain and toppled into the water.

The youth was the son of William H. Preston of Oak Park, district manager for the Corticelli Silk company, 73 West Adams street. His malady was diabetes.

Former Governor of West Virginia Is Dead

Morgantown, W. Va.—William E. Glasscock, sixty-three, former governor of West Virginia, died at his home here. Mr. Glasscock had been ill for several years and death was due to a general breakdown in health. He was prominent in the state politically for years and was elected to the governorship on the Republican ticket in 1909 after a bitter fight. He served until 1913.

Pair Found Shot to Death

Cleveland.—H. B. P. Wrenn, electrical engineer of the Cleveland Union Terminals company, and his wife, Mrs. Isabel Norma Wrenn, were found dead in their home in Lakewood. Mrs. Wrenn is believed to have shot and killed her husband and then killed herself.

Arab Clashes Are Avoided

ORLAND M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The evening services during Holy Week were well attended. Inspiring messages were brought by the following ministers: Monday, Rev. E. L. Setterlund of Chicago; Tuesday, Dr. Edwin C. Arnold of Chicago; Wednesday, Rev. Forey of Palos Park; Thursday, Rev. Paul Sanders of Worth; Friday, Rev. M. H. Neumeyer of Chicago. On Wednesday evening special musical numbers were given by members of the Palos Park church, and on Thursday evening the choir from the church at Worth came to the services in the pouring rain to add a beautiful message in song. Friday evening the Orland choir gave some special numbers.

There was a record Easter attendance last Sunday, the church being filled at both morning and evening services. Many Easter lilies, hyacinths and other potted plants made the front of the church very attractive. At the morning service the choir, under the direction of Mr. Ernest Evans of Chicago sang some beautiful numbers. Mrs. Clarence E. Beagley sang a pretty solo and Miss Helen Briggs and her sister, Mrs. Wm. Freck gave a very pleasing duet.

The opening devotional service in the evening was in charge of Mr. Clarence E. Beagley. Rev. Collins gave a message on Prayer in connection with the motion picture, showing the occasion on which Christ gave the Lord's Prayer to His Disciples, in response to their request, "Teach us to pray."

Next Sunday evening the pastor's sermon will be on "Forgiveness," and will be illustrated by a 2-reel film, entitled, "As We Forgive," which tells the story of the Book of Philemon in the Bible. The choir will have charge of the devotional services.

In order to provide wholesome entertainment in the community, the church now showing good pictures every Friday evening at 8 P. M.

On Friday, April 24th, Mary Pickford will be seen in the 6-reel movie, "Pollyanna," the story of the girl famous for her "glad game."

The Ladies Aid will hold their next all day meeting on Thursday, April 23rd, with Mrs. Betsy Austin. It is hoped that a large number of the members will attend and all other women interested are cordially invited.

Several of the Young People, accompanied by Mrs. Kramer, secretary of the Adult Bible Class, and Rev. Collins, called last Sunday afternoon on several people who were unable to attend services, taking with them gifts of Easter lilies and singing song for them. Monthly calls are made to these folks under the direction of this class.

Harold Helenhouse entertained several of his little friends last Saturday afternoon in honor of his 7th birthday. Games were played and prizes won by Lester Kinney, Arthur Kimmel, Willis Hollenstein and Ralph Kimmel.

The time passed only too quickly for all, and the little guests are hoping for his next anniversary to come soon. A very nice lunch was served by Harold's mother, Mrs. J. Helenhouse, the table being decorated in keeping with the Easter season. Many nice gifts were received by the young host.

A card and bunco party has been announced for April 22nd. It is to be at St. Michael's Church in Orland. Ten ladies of the Altar Society have generously donated prizes. Everyone is cordially invited.

Excavating work on the new McGovern garage is going on. Tree roots have retarded the digging. Soon as this is finished building operations will start. The new garage is to be a good sized one and will be a worth while addition to the business growth of Orland.

Man and the Flowers.

The fragrance of plants is not for man's pleasure; it is a means of attracting insects to fertilize them. The object of many present-day florists is to improve a flower in its coloring, size and substance—in short to "paint the lily." They cannot improve the fragrance, which is perhaps the reason they seem to care so little for its disappearance under their handling—Exchange.

She nodded happily. "I am ashamed to feel so gay when you are unhappy," she said.

"I am not unhappy, Joan," he answered. "I thought over everything last night, and I see now that you were right. I shall go back. Of course I shall go back. I shall regain what I have lost, and I shall face my enemies and beat them."

At ten o'clock the horse was harnessed and the drive back began.

At first Joan, seated at her lover's side, breathed in the mountain air, the sense of freedom, the scent of the pines, the joy of the sunlight. Then the peaks began to tower above them. The dulled valley air struck something from her joy, but not too much for her to dream. She looked fondly at Lancaster, who drew her hand into his.

"I am going back to win," he said again.

Later the sun went into clouds. The air grew moister, the hills inclosed them, the familiar landmarks began to reappear. And now something of Lancaster's despondency of the evening before came over Joan. And again, as if sensing her mood, he reiterated:

"I am going back to fight and win, my dear."

But when the institute came into sight at last the long, gaunt building cast its chill over the girl's heart. In contrast with the mountain village Lancaster was depressing and lonely. And Joan was conscious of one gripping fear. Suppose that Myers had returned!

She understood now how Lancaster had felt the evening before when he said he would never go back. It was like plunging out of the sunlight into a dark mountain pool.

The matron came forward as the buggy stopped. Joan looked at her in terror. But her face was placid enough, and she was able to read in it the secretary's continued absence.

"Dr. Lancaster, there was a telephone message for you a few minutes ago from Avonmouth," she said.

Lancaster leaped from the buggy and helped Joan down. "I'll be with you in a few moments," he said, throwing the reins over the hitching post.

He went into the house. His step was firm, his demeanor unflinching; the matron, who followed him, seemed undisturbed. But already everything was changed. The black shadow of Myers seemed to loom up until it overspread the institute again. Joan paced the porch in fear which gathered strength each moment that Lancaster failed to return. When at last she saw him coming her suspense was unbearable.

She looked at him in mute fear as he laid his hand carelessly upon her shoulder.

"I have to go to Avonmouth at once," he said. "I have no choice in the matter. It is a patient who must undergo an operation—my operation—within twelve hours. It is fortunate that we have the buggy, because I shall just have time to catch the afternoon train and get into Avonmouth at midnight."

Then he looked at her white face and read the fear in it. "If you tell me to stay, I'll stay," he said.

"And the patient?" whispered Joan.

"Will die. No, of course I shall go. Nothing could keep me from going, not even you, my dear. But you would not have me stay."

"You are right. Yes, of course you must go. But I am afraid," said Joan. "I am afraid of Myers."

He started, as if he, too, had been thinking of the secretary. "But the man can't harm me, dear," he said.

"The message came from him!" cried Joan in fear.

Lancaster looked away. But, when she repeated the question he answered, "No."

"He is at Avonmouth. Is he not there?" she asked.

"Well, Joan, I think he is," said Lancaster reluctantly. "But he may not be. I only know that the message was not from him."

"It was not from the hospital? Not from MacPherson?"

"It was from a man connected with the hospital," said Lancaster. "But it was not from MacPherson and not from Myers, and it did not mention Myers' name. Why, my dear, you mustn't give way to nerves now that I am losing mine. It is a simple request for me to operate tomorrow."

She pulled herself together. "Of course you must go, John," she said again. She put her arms about his neck. "Dear, if you should see that man, you will not fall into any trap that he may set for you?" she asked.

"You are so strong, you will not let him trample on you? You are yourself again, and you will remain so for my sake?"

"Never fear!" he answered cheerfully. "I am not going to take morphine again. Why, I shall have none with me, my dear Joan, and I should have no opportunity to buy any, even if I wanted to. I shall operate perhaps as soon as I reach the hospital, and return on the morning train. I may not even go to my house at all."

"I am not afraid that you will take morphine," said Joan. "But you will not see Myers?"

"Not if I can help it. He can't come to the hospital, and I don't think he will dare to lie in wait for me at the station. If he does, he'll find me a tough customer to kidnap in broad daylight. There, my dear, be calm and sensible, and when I return I shall tell you everything that you must know."

He kissed her and hurried in to pack his suitcase. He came out in a few moments and placed it in the buggy. "Good-by, Joan, dearest Joan," he said. "And you will not hint at our engagement to Mrs. Fraser while I am gone? I have very special reasons for this."

She shook her head and laughed, and returned his kiss, and all the while her heart grew heavier. And long after the buggy had disappeared from sight she stood upon the porch looking after it.

Chapter IX

That night was sleepless as the last, but all the joy that had filled her heart in the hill cabin was gone. She lay awake, listening to the rain that pattered on the roof, thinking and wondering. How strange her life had become, and how far away the old landmarks were! She had fought for a man's soul in darkness and snatched it into light, and now the darkness seemed closing about her again. And she could only hope and wait through endless hours.

In vain she tried to tell herself that it was only an ordinary summons. On the face of it, the call was natural; but Joan's instinct told her that there was more behind it. Myers had not surrendered his prey so easily as he had assumed to do. And Lancaster had been evasive—so spare her, perhaps, but evasive. And her task now was only to wait.

At eight she rose. She imagined that he must have finished the operation some time before, and be at the station, or on his way there, but her soul could not go out to his across the distance, and their communion seemed to be cut short by the same impenetrable darkness. Dressing, she was conscious of a stronger presentiment of approaching evil which she could not shake away.

"And the Patient?" Whispered Joan.

It was a gloomy day, and the rain came down in torrents. About eleven o'clock Doctor Jenkins arrived in his buggy and inquired for Lancaster. He seemed surprised to learn that he had gone to Avonmouth.

He was preparing to return, but Joan felt the need of speech with him irresistible. She did not mean to cross-examine him, she only wanted to shake off the feeling that Lancaster had passed out of her reach by speaking to one of his associates. She hardly knew the purpose of her accosting Jenkins until she saw the look of concern upon his face.

"Miss Wentworth, you aren't well!" he exclaimed. "You have been over-doing it!"

"No, Doctor Jenkins, but—Doctor Lancaster has gone into Avonmouth—"

"Yes, Miss Wentworth. But he won't come to any harm there, thanks to you. You've taught me a thing or two about morphine patients, Miss Wentworth," he went on, in his polite, complimentary fashion. "I never saw anyone get well as fast as Doctor Lancaster, nor any nurse that could handle a situation as you did," he added.

"Yes, but it was not really morphine, you know," said Joan, and then she almost gaped in astonishment. What had she said? Why had she said it?

Doctor Jenkins was staring at her too. "Not morphine, you say, Miss Wentworth?" he stammered.

"I mean, the symptoms weren't those of morphine poisoning," said Joan.

"Oh, well, Miss Wentworth, everybody takes it in a different way," he answered. "Yes, I reckon it was morphine right enough. They wouldn't put the wrong label on the bottles. You certainly did set things humming, and raising his hat."

"Wait a moment, Doctor Jenkins," persisted Joan. "I am so anxious about the doctor. He ought not to have gone; he was in no condition to go, and yet a man's life is at stake."

The doctor's face became at once impenetrable. He seemed to be on his guard against her. He seemed to know more than she, Doctor Lancaster's fiancée, knew; it was humiliating and ironical, but Joan saw that to question him, even if she had been so minded, was useless.

She was not minded. That would be a disloyal act toward her lover. Soon she would know; and meanwhile she kept down her fears. She watched Jenkins drive away with sinking heart. And somehow the morning passed.

The hours of afternoon were leaden ones. Five o'clock came at last, with no cessation of the downpour, and Joan went out and paced the rain-soaked veranda endlessly, looking anxiously in the direction of the station, though she knew that it must be at least two hours before she could hope to see Jenkins' buggy again on its way up the hill.

Through the lowering western clouds the sun, emerging for a moment, streaked the west with angry crimson splashes. Lancaster must be nearly home. But it was no use waiting there, where her fears grew from moment to moment. She went into the building, and saw the matron standing within her door. Suddenly she sensed the reflection of her own fears in Mrs. Fraser's heart; she knew the woman was doing nothing as she stood there, was waiting, like herself, and in the same manner, hoping against hope for the doctor's safe return. Impulsively Joan entered the room. She could keep silence no longer. She broke down, sobbing distractedly.

"I am afraid something has happened to the doctor," she wept.

"Now you sit down in that chair, Miss Wentworth," said Mrs. Fraser kindly. "It's been a trying day. But Doctor Lancaster will be home in an hour, and there's no use becoming anxious about him. Heavens, if we got anxious before we had cause, what should we do?"

"I know," sobbed the girl. "But I can't bear waiting. I know something has happened to him."

"Now, my dear, you are all worked up about him," she said. "He won't come to any harm. He can't come to harm when he went straight to his own hospital," she added.

But she spoke without conviction. Joan's hysterical mood was infecting her, increasing her own fears and forebodings.

"I reckon you know, Miss Wentworth, how much Doctor Jenkins and I feel we owe to you for taking care of the doctor," she said, seating herself at the girl's side. "And for getting that man out of the place, my dear. Man? He's a devil—he's the doctor's devil, Miss Wentworth. And no harm can come to the doctor with you watching for him and praying for him."

Joan looked up at her with troubled face. "Mrs. Fraser, I am so much at a loss," she said. "Doctor Jenkins and you have known Doctor Lancaster so long, and I am a stranger here. I am like a child in comparison with you, so far as knowledge of Doctor Lancaster is concerned. I have been fighting his physical troubles, and I do not know his mental ones. That is what puts me at a loss. How can I know that Doctor Lancaster's enemies are not waiting for him, or have not hurt him?"

The matron placed her hand on the girl's knee. "Why, my dear, Doctor Lancaster has no enemies," she said. "How could such a splendid man have enemies? Of course there are troubles; who hasn't them? And it may be there's things that Doctor Jenkins and I don't know—I've thought there might be. But we've only been here three years, and that was long after the doctor's troubles began. And of course we never listened to the village gossip. But oh, Miss Wentworth, you can't imagine the sorrow in our hearts when we saw that splendid man giving way to his habit, and letting it creep over him little by little and gain the mastery."

"News" in "Newport News"

The origin of the name of the city of Newport News is uncertain. It is believed to be derived from two proper names—Newport and Newce. Captain Newport commanded the first vessel to bring immigrants to Virginia and William Newce was one of the early treasurers of the colony. John Smith wrote the latter name "Nuse."

Lesson for April 19

LIFE IN THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 4:31-5:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—"The multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul."—Acts 4:32.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Story About Giving.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How the First Christians Loved One Another.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Early Christians Lived Together.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lesson From the Early Church.

1. Characteristics of the Primitive Church (vv. 31-35).

1. It Was a Praying Church (v. 31). These early Christians for every want and every need betook themselves to God in prayer.

2. It Was a Spirit-filled Church (v. 31).

When they prayed, the place was shaken wherein they were gathered together, and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit.

3. It Was a Church Which Had Great Boldness in Preaching the Word of God (v. 31).

The ministers of a Spirit-filled church will not offer any apology for the Bible, but will expend all their energy in fearlessly preaching it.

4. It Was a United Church (v. 32).

They were all of one heart and one soul. This shows that they had a unity of feeling and purpose.

5. It Was a Charitable and Generous Church (v. 32).

They held nothing back from those who had need. As needs arose, supplies were given from a common fund.

6. Its Ministers Had a Powerful Testimony (v. 33).

This shows that there must be a personal experience before there can be a powerful testimony.

7. It Was a Church Whose Membership Exhibited Unblemished Character (v. 33).

Great grace was upon them all.

11. Barnabas' Generous Act (vv. 36-37).

He sold a piece of land and turned over all the proceeds thereof to be used for the help of those in need. It should be borne in mind, however, that it is not said that Barnabas sold all the land he had.

111. The Sanctity of the Church Vindicated (5:1-11).

This new community is now for the first time called the church. The mention of the church in Acts 2:47 is spurious. They now have broken with Judaism so that their success depends upon their being recognized. Since this new community superseded the old, God was to make His dwelling place among them—the very sacredness of the tabernacle and temple was transferred to them. This lesson, the church itself must learn, as well as the Jewish mass surrounding it. The sacredness of God's dwelling place men are slow to learn. Moses did not take off his shoes until bidden by the Lord. Nadab and Abihu must be stricken down in the beginning of the Mosaic economy for their presumptuous offering of strange fire before the Lord. Achan was put to death for secreting a part of the booty soon after entering the promised land. So at the beginning of the church, this warning was needed on the part of the church to prevent the hypocrisy of double service.

1. The Occasion Which Brought This Dreadful Judgment on Ananias and Sapphira (vv. 1-4).

It was their hypocritical imitation of the generous act of Barnabas. He and his wife conspired together in this defiance of God. They wanted the honor without paying the price. The same love of praise is causing many in the church today to imitate their dreadful mistake. Peter told them they had not lied to men, but to God. So far as we know Ananias did not speak a word, but his actions spoke louder than his words. Such actions could only be accounted for by the fact that Satan filled their hearts. But that did not excuse them. They were responsible for allowing Satan a place in their hearts. We should learn from this that God and mammon cannot be served at the same time. People today are walking in the way of Ananias when they sit down at the Lord's table with unregenerate hearts.

2. The Judgment Which Fell (vv. 5-10).

Both Ananias and Sapphira fell down dead and the young men carried them away for burial.

3. Great Fear Came Upon the Church (v. 11).

This vindication caused the people to know that God was with them, and it also kept the hypocrites from joining with them (v. 13). Let us beware!

Presistence of Life

Strange, isn't it, that marvelous presistence of life! But that is a way that life has. We speak of it sometimes as very fleeting and transitory, and yet there are so many things about us, after all, that are very hard to kill.

Killed at 104 Years

When old Dr. Yernest, the Swedish doctor, scientist and inventor, was killed at the age of 104 years by falling from his horse, there is no telling how long he might have lived to prove that he had rediscovered the ancient secret of prolonging life.

He proved that the secret of good health—the secret of prolonging life—was to keep the digestive organs in good condition and that all the elements to sustain life and to replenish waste tissue could be secured from pure and wholesome food.

His remedy made of Roots and Herbs he called "ESSENCE OF LIFE," for it seemed to restore vitality and strength to all who used it.

He gave away thousands of packages of his "ESSENCE OF LIFE" and you can also secure a free trial (now made in pill form) if you will cut out his picture and mail it to M. R. Zaegel & Co., chemists, 630 Eighth St., Sheboygan, Wis.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

WHEN in need of Printing see what we can do before you go elsewhere.

Most Difficult Things in Life.

A Danish paper recently asked the readers to state what is the hardest thing in the world to do. It received many more replies than it had anticipated, some of which are as follows: To be a toe dancer if you weigh 200 pounds, to get back borrowed books, to trim one's nails while wearing boxing gloves. Some of the readers took the question seriously and answered it seriously. One replied that to live without telling a lie was the most difficult of all.

THIS OFFICE is the place to have your printing done, no matter what kind it may be.

WORTH

Worth's new fire department showed their ability last week on the Budenkopf estate in Worth, when fire came near destroying the whole place. A big barn burned down, but the house and grainery were saved by the fire engine.

Mrs. Marie Morris had a slight accident the past week when her car collided with another car from Chicago.

Our new motor cycle policeman, Dan Crandell is busy on his job enforcing the village speed laws.

Children be careful and don't walk on people's lawns as the grass is now getting green. One woman got so mad the other day when she saw a boy walk over a hay field that she jumped over a fence, grabbed the boy by the collar and came near choking him to death.

There will be a ball game at the Lang field Saturday between a team from Chicago and Worth. A hot game is looked forward to. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

WORTH CHURCH NOTES

Easter morning about 150 attended the service at the M. E. church which will go down as one of the greatest days in the history of the Worth church.

The cantata given in the evening was well received, about 100 attending the services. Much credit is due to Miss Doris Piper and Rev. Paul T. Sanders.

Night Coughing—How to Stop It

Night coughing which, through loss of valuable sleep, often makes you feel utterly worn-out and useless during the day, and by quickly weakening the system lays you open to the most dangerous infections, can now be promptly checked by a very simple treatment. People who have hardly been able to rest on account of coughing spells have found that they can sleep the whole night through undisturbed after the very first trial.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals the soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which is the real cause of the cough. The result is that you usually sleep as soundly as a babe the very first night, and the cough goes in a very short time.

The prescription contains no opiates or harmful drugs. Excellent for children as well as grown-ups. For coughs, chest colds, hoarseness, sore throat, spasmodic croup, bronchitis, laryngitis and bronchial asthma. At all good druggists. Ask for

The committee has been rather hastened in its work on account of the sale of the old school house being set at an early date. They felt that this was an opportunity to save money on the pile of a building, so the building had to be purchased before mature plans were developed.

Since the school building was bought, a committee has been appointed to recommend a building site.

A committee to arrange for moving the building to the site selected. Also a committee to formulate and draft a plan of organization. As soon as these steps are made, the plans will be made public and everybody invited to join in and help.

In the meantime the committee will try and keep everybody informed.

A. O. Foskett, Chairman.

MOKENA

A bazaar party will be given for the benefit of St. Mary's church at the John Horace home. An admission fee will be charged. A door prize will be given.

The Lutheran Young People will give their play "Ruth in A Rush" at the Mokena Men's Club pavilion on May 7th.

The Girl Scouts will give a play in the St. John church parlors on next Friday night.

The minstrel given by the choir of St. John's Tuesday and Wednesday nights was a big success and a neat sum was cleared.

Mrs. Geo. Cooper is ill at her home in Joliet, with the Flu. A nurse is in attendance.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. We wish especially to thank the Rev. Kreis for his comforting words and for the many beautiful floral offerings; and those who donated the use of their cars.
